OLD RULE OF FREE FOOD TO BE DISCARDED

Providing Jobless With Beds, Clothing for Loafing Will Be Stopped

CALGARY, Nov. 6.—A. A. MacKenzie, Alberta relief commission chairman, today laid out an ultimatum to state jobless and had charged Alberta's relief costs were "far too high." Mr. MacKenzie's statement followed a week-end meeting of the commission here.

"I was ashamed to have to admit I came from Alberta when the situation was discussed at Ottawa," he declared. "Calgary is paying more for relief than any other Canadian city. Alberta is far ahead of any other province. Our relief costs are too high."

Every man will have to work for his relief," the commission head emphasized. "The business of giving men food, clothing and shelter is not going to continue. More than 100 million are receiving relief in Calgary now and they could be earning $2 to $4 a day shovelling snow."

Mr. MacKenzie said to larger men and municipalities by the commission.

"There are many getting more out of relief than they ever got before they became public charges," he declared. "There have been no more and the commission intends to cut them out."

BRITAIN WILL MAKE TOKEN OFFER TO U.S.

Partial Payment to be in Legality of Debt on Account

WASHINGTON, Nov. 6.—An official communique was expected today to set forth the failure of the United States and Great Britain to agree upon war debts revision and showing that another token payment will be made in the 15 day due date.

The matter will be made by Great Britain probably on the same terms as the June 15 installment.

The partial payment will be in recognition of the legality of the debt and will simply be received by the President in lieu of the full payment.

In all likelihood Great Britain will take advantage of the American offer to use silver in the payment at the rate of 30 cents an ounce.

Thus, the whole debt issue is again projected into the future and conversations with other countries are not expected just now.

Until there is stabilization of currencies, it appears highly unlikely that Mr. Roosevelt will enter any definite agreement for downward revision of the debts.

The fight was said to have been a "friendly" one, but Steele said he was "a little bit" of a boxer.

LOVELY LONDON AS THE DETRICH-GARBO FEUD

First of Six Stories Revealing Struggles Waged Behind Scenes in Moviedom

This is the first of six articles on "Hollywood Rivals" by Dan Thomas, Hollywood correspondent for the Edmonton Bulletin, revealing the struggles that rear behind the bright lights for film-doms' highest honors.

By DAN THOMAS
HOLLYWOOD story of a woman's fight against "the other woman" ever was more dramatic than the silent, relentless warfare waged between the great feminine stars of screenland from their orbits cross. A woman who has climbed the slippery ladder of screen fame always drags the day when another star shall rise and make a bid for her own particular run on the ladder.

Sometimes personal dislike adds fuel to the flame. Sometimes personal friendship between the rivals softens, but cannot end, the competition. Sometimes there is no personal relationship at all, but the rivalry for public favor goes to such lengths as to be only a much needed thing.

Garbo and Dietrich, Velez and Davis, Crawford and Shinn and Swanson and Bennett, Harlow and Bow, Chatterton and Pickford—these are the great opening line-ups in the war to capture King of the Movies.

The perfect example of a vendetta to the death, with the throne of Queen of the Movies as the disputed prize, is the rivalry of Greta Garbo and Marlene Dietrich. They don't even know each other personally, but the rivalry between them is terrific, and grows hotter as time goes on.

Until Dietrich was imported from Germany, Garbo held almost undisputed position as the most popular of the big foreign stars, so naturally herself that none of Hollywood's actresses could give her any competition.

Exotic, glamorous, and aloof, she asked no quarter and gave none. She was the GREAT GARB. However, Dietrich's entrance changed the picture. Here was another foreign star, also exotic and glamorous. And she was something new, Eyes were turned toward her.

GARBO IN HER PATH
 So, it wasn't long before Dietrich began to see Garbo as the only obstacle between her and the complete rule of filmdom. If something could be done to eliminate the Swedish star, she could rule. This thought was given added impetus last year, when Garbo left for a tour of the United States.

Marlene thus was left alone upon the Swedish star's throne. She started working plans, apparently with the thought of launching a new vogue. It was a publicity sensation, but it didn't last.

The Garbo-Dietrich rivalry started with completion of Dietrich's first American picture. Up to that point Garbo hadn't given the German star much thought, regarding her simply as "another foreign importation."

But when Marlene's first picture was given a colorful premiere at the Chinese Theatre and not only Dietrich but the world, started talking about "the new Garbo," that was a signal for battle.

CONTRASTING TACTICS
 It is interesting to watch the campaigns waged by these two stars. Garbo continued her policy of remaining aloof from everyone. She refused to talk to anyone except her own extremely small group of friends.

She would not tell even studio officials where she lived. She continued to remain conspicuous by her absence at all social functions. In fact, she seemed to take pride in being "the mysterious lady of Hollywood."

Exactly the opposite policy was adopted by Miss Dietrich. Although she became very "choosy" about those to whom she would talk, she was not coy. Dietrich stepped into popular eating places around town and frequently glimpsed at her by the public.

Rarely did she fail to attract a premiere. And she was a marked figure at many of the more important social gatherings in the film colony.

RIVALRY AT A CLIMAX
 The high spot of this entire campaign for supremacy came last month, when Garbo returned from Europe and insisted upon hav-

The fact that Greta was a Metro-Goldwyn-Mayer star and Mamoulian under contract to Paramount made no difference. She told studio officials very plainly that they either borrow Mamoulian for her picture or she didn't work.

"Queen Christina" was just about to go into production when Marlene returned from her vacation and immediately started making preparations for a similar picture, "The Scarlet Pimpernel." If Garbo could go to it in the green, she could lose. As a result, shortly after Garbo is seen in the role of Queen Christina of Sweden, Dietrich will blossom forth as Catherine the Great of Russia.

CLOSE RACE AGAIN
 And that's where the situation stands today. When both were here and working they were on a pretty even footing. When Garbo returned to Sweden for a prolonged vacation, Dietrich stepped into Europe and Garbo returned, but it was not for long. The figure of Marlene Dietrich is back, it has become a near-and-near beauty.

SEVEN KILLED WHEN 'PLANE TAKES PLUNGE

Machine Strikes Jersey Roofs—Five Burn to Death

SILVERSPRING, N.J., Nov. 6.—A National Guard airplane carrying George R. Johnson, noted aerial photographer and explorer, and a pilot, last night plummeted into a residence on Cherry street, and exploded. Johnson and the pilot were killed in the crash, and five persons burned to death in the fire that followed, destroying the house.

The five persons burned to death were Negroes. George R. (Tuck) Johnson of Redbank, Sgt. Alfred Podo, Newark; Mrs. Margaret King, 24, Cherry street; Patricia King, Mrs. John King, five, and Edward King, three.

The house, a five-room bungalow, was owned by Mrs. Margaret Patterson, grandmother of the King children. Mrs. King's husband, Otis, had left the place only a few minutes before the crash. A neighbor, said the plane left Red Bank about 100 yards away, piloted altitude for a while and then plunged low and landed. The pilot, said, took off again and the plane crashed. As it started to bank again, it suddenly dived. The tail hit an adjoining house and the plane crashed into the rear of the King house.

Mrs. Carter said she heard one of the children scream, but no other sounds came from the house. Johnson was widely known as a photographer and explorer and lived in Monmouth Beach. He was a former lieutenant in the Persian War. Johnson was the first pilot to fly over the volcano, Mt. Vesuvius.

Features of the Great Western program will be 10 new "Caster" engines enabling a big speeding-up of 200 passenger vehicles in which capacity of passengers is being considerably increased for, and from cars designed to travel as fast as passenger trains.

Ald. Rice Sheppard Challenges Heckler To "Boxing Match" that he believed that charity was for the aged and the infirm—for the others there should be work at all levels. He scoffed at the system now prevailing in the city, whereby persons on relief were compelled to do useless and humiliating work, such as picking weeds and shovelling snow. Works of some benefit, to the community should be carried out and the workers should be paid in cash for their services.

Miss Margaret Crang, who came down here for the first time, pretty thanked her parent for this privilege before commencing her five-minute speech, to ask the voters to support her candidature for alderman on the Labor ticket. New blood and new ideas were needed on the council, she proposed to supply this. If the electors endorsed her candidature, Labor not only had judgment and a platform, but certain principles to live up to, and she would carry them out.

Alderman J. W. Findlay, standing for re-election on the Labor ticket, thanked the district for placing him at the head of the poll in Riverview at the last election. The troubles that afflicted the city now were like a disease, and as every disease has a definite cause, so the troubles could be remedied. He spoke of relief matters and reminded his hearers that he had signed the minority report of the investigators of the relief department, advocating certain reforms. As for those who charged that Labor did not have the cause of the worker at heart, he referred them to the fact that wages for laborers in this city were fixed at 25 cents an hour.

All of the candidates were asked a stock question with regard to the sewage disposal plant nuisance at Riverview, and all promised to do their best in the matter.

NO HECKLING
 Many questions were pressed upon the aldermanic and school board candidates at the Riverview meeting, Saturday night but the speakers were not interrupted and there was no heckling.

The ward system of civic election, he tuning by-law, the Calgary Power agreement and the prospect of a new school appeared to be of major interest to the Forest Heights people at the meeting, about 60 being present.

On the ward question Mayor Knott said the city had presented a "half-baked" ward system which provided that a certain number of aldermen must be from the south side. It gave rise to too many petty ward politics, he said. F. R. Lovette and W. W. McNeil have been confronted with the system stating that it laid on aldermen's ads at his own door and did away with "back-packing." At candidates feared discontinuance of the power agreement.

Arthur Husband was chairman. That the city council in the past two years had made the best possible use of available funds in administering the city's affairs and that problems with which no previous mayor had been confronted had been faced, Mayor D. K. Knott, speaking at length, said the council on the Labor side, told an audience at Forest Heights school Saturday night.

HOMES PROTECTED
 Homes had been protected, the mayor stated, and not once in the past two years had title been taken from an owner for not paying taxes, provided it was not his fault. "As long as I am mayor this will not be done," he said.

In spite of shrinking assessment part of the taxes not being collected the city had carried on, faced its problems and met its obligations.

In a dozen questions the mayor gave replies, positive and to the point, receiving a big applause on each answer at his own door.

Speaking for Trustee A. E. Ottewill and H. A. Dyer, C.G.A. candidates for the public school board, they were unable to do more than say that the school trustee spoke of Mr. Ottewill as one of the men best fitted for the position in Edmonton.

Mr. Ottewill commended the whole C.G.A. slate, and said that Mr. Dyer was a worthy son of his father, Professor Dyer, whom he remembered as one of the two finest men on the staff of Queen's university.

Ald. Elice Sheppard, Labor candidate for alderman, stated that after his treatment at the last elec-

STRAITFORD NOW BUSY; STRIKE IS HISTORY

Five of Six Plants Buzzing With Industry After Seven Weeks

STRAITFORD, Ont., Nov. 6.—With more than seven weeks of strike behind them—weeks in which new workmen had been trained in the history of industrial struggles in this country—five of the six plants have abandoned places on the picket lines for benches in the workbenches.

Today Stratford will resume her place among the leading industrial cities of the province when five of the six plants affected by the strike will be in operation. The Kitchener Manufacturing company plant will not reopen before Tuesday.

Agreements were reached at the other plants. McLaughlin's, the Chair company, Moore-Bell and Farquhar, and the Swift plant resumed operations Saturday morning and the others agreed to open Monday. The Preston Noting Co., the sixth plant affected by the strike, reached an agreement with its men about two weeks ago and had been in operation since that time.

The Swift Canadian company, which resumed operations Saturday, will be in full swing today as will be the C. N. R. shops after a week's holiday, in line with their policy of working the full week. The Swift plant was closed about six weeks ago.

When he polled the highest vote ever accorded an alderman, he could not desert the citizens who had elected him to office. He made a definite stand in the interest of the people is greater now than ever before in the city's history, he said. He had always opposed the Calgary Power agreement.

R. D. Tiehr, K.C.G. aldermanic candidate on the C.G.A. slate, did not favor the health insurance plan. "The most important thing in the health of our city," he said, "is the school trustees have decided this is the best way for amalgamation I bow to their decision."

He favored the policy of the city in not enforcing the salary reductions. "He could have truthfully answered 'yes,'" Mr. Tiehr stated.

Mr. H. D. Ainslie, Labor aldermanic candidate, stated that the Labor section of council last year had been unanimous in favoring cash relief but that the federal and provincial relief departments had decided against it. He stated that he divided income as used by Joseph Clarke, majority candidate, in a rhetorical question asking if workers' bodies had been called into commercial in the matter of civic salary reductions. "He could have truthfully answered 'yes,'" Mr. Ainslie stated.

Dr. F. W. Crang, Labor candidate for school board, detailed work which the present school board has done outside of the general educational program, including the sub-normal classes, the night-school class, milk for underprivileged children and supplying of care for children of parents on relief which is now under consideration.

Dr. Crang voluntarily gave two minutes of his time to his daughter, Miss Margaret Crang aldermanic candidate of the Labor Party.

W. W. McNeil, C.G.A. aldermanic candidate, stated that a program of greasing work would provide work unemployed with little cost, which would restore them to their citizenship and the city would have something useful at the end of the depression. Answering a question put by Jan Lakeman, Communist candidate, as to "What have all these leaders been doing for the past year?" Mr. McNeil said, "I have been giving employment to 150 men and it has cost me a lot because there has been no profit in business during the past year." He flayed the Calgary Power agreement and promised to work for lower electric rates. He advocated city business administration by businessmen.

Trouper Gets Last

The Frontal Attack On Wages and Salaries

By R. T. ELLIOTT, K.C.

When the Prime Minister of Canada announced: "I have never hesitated to apply the Dumping Duties to any importation of goods coming in at prices below the cost of production in Canada," he should also have added the declaration: "And I have insisted that this full measure of protection be extended to the wage-earners in that particular business so that full normal wages and salaries be paid and wage-cutting be prohibited."

Unless the proper measure of protection under the tariff be extended to the wage and salary earners, they are left to sell their time and work in an unprotected world labor market, and will certainly be kept down to the lowest standard of living possible without revolution.

Every tariff and every tax on the necessities of life decreases the purchasing power of wage and salary. Therefore it is absolutely necessary that the amount of protection and dumping duty be divided on fair terms between capital and labour; so that in the percentage to which we have protected capital we will also have protected labour; otherwise capital will get all the protection, and wage and salary earners carry all the load of unrestricted world labour competition.

Public proof should be insisted upon by the Prime Minister to show the people of Canada that manufacturers enjoying the highest measure of protection this country have ever known, have not cut wages and salaries, and hogged all the protection for themselves.

A widespread popular belief exists that there has been a frontal attack on wages and salaries; that world trends of lower wages and salaries and wage-cutting have been given full scope in Canada, leaving the wage and salary earners unprotected—while the highest possible measure of protection has been afforded to capital.

The Prime Minister only performs one-half his duty when he demonstrates full protection to capital. He is under imperative duty to demonstrate that the protection extends to the preservation of wages and salaries; and that in the protected industries there is no wage cutting and no salary cutting. There will be no difficulty in assembling and giving publicity to the actual facts.

Tex Guinan Dies In Vancouver, B.C. As 'Show Goes On'

SUDDEN DEATH ENDS COLORFUL GIRL'S CAREER

Internal Ailment Sent Her For Operation Week Ago, Died in Great Pain—Career Colorful, Kaleidoscopic.

TEXAS GUINAN, far from her beloved Broadway, sleeping with a show, Texas fell ill in Vancouver last week, and passed away Sunday morning.

Chinese Girl Weds Rooster: For Life Mate

CANTON, China, Nov. 6.—An amazing wedding in which a pretty Cantonese girl married a rooster was solemnized here today.

Vancouver, Nov. 6.—Texas Guinan lay here in death today 3,000 miles away from the lights of New York where she had reigned as "Night Club Queen."

Her death, a sudden one, came against which she had battled in vain for a month in order that she might continue performance with her theatrical troupe, sent her to hospital Oct. 28, and a crisis was precipitated through bowel perforation and she died Sunday morning some 20 hours after an operation.

In an openly sobbing or easily-silent company of 40 girls at an hotel room where her scarcely able to realize their leader had been snatched from them so suddenly.

Ed Baker, manager, with tears pouring down his cheeks, said "we were one large family. Texas loved the girls and they loved her. We had no idea she was in such a dangerous state until Saturday. The girls carried an apologetic letter to her taken to hospital and she was placed with them."

"Even after the operation when she called some of us in and smiled and opened her arms."

SUFFERED GREAT PAIN
"I can't go on with this pain, but I must," she said, and then she died.

Dr. J. A. MacLachlan called to attend her when she first arrived in Vancouver. She appeared on the stage Saturday and Sunday, and was taken to hospital on Sunday night.

The theatre slogan, "the show must go on," probably split Texas' heart for her, she had gone on since first being engaged in 1924 in Portland, Ore. A month ago, she was suffering from a severe internal ailment, and was taken to hospital on Sunday night.

Miss Guinan's body will be taken to New York by her brother, George Guinan, arrived here today from that city to make final arrangements.

After the operation "Texas" received the last rites of the Roman Catholic Church from the Rev. Father of St. Patrick's church.

The robust entertainer sent the phrase, "Hello, Buenos Aires," to the little girl a great big hand, virtually all the time.

KALEIDOSCOPE CAREER
Born Mary Louise Cecilia Guinan in West Texas, she had completed a career which has been a kaleidoscope of experiences.

She had been a model from Broadway to the last three years and just had completed a Pacific Coast theatrical tour with her troupe.

Yeast Bread Is Easily Made This Way

By SISTER MARY
Breads made light by the use of yeast are the whole more satisfactory than the so-called quick breads made by baking powder and soda. And while the home-maker seems to feel that yeast breads are more trouble to make, this is a mistake. The process is neither hard nor tedious.

When economy is an object, you can effect wonderful saving by doing your own baking. After a little experience you will do it easily, and with perfect results.

Sister Mary
The flour used for bread-making is preferably white flour made from spring wheat. This kind of flour contains more gluten than that made from winter wheat and therefore it contains more gluten which develops in the bread dough better than pastry flour made from winter wheat.

BREAD

Two cups scalded milk, 1 tablespoon sugar, 1 tablespoon salt, 2 tablespoons yeast, 2 cups lukewarm water, 6 cups bread flour.

Put butter, lard, sugar and salt into large mixing bowl. Add scalded milk and sugar. Heat mixture to lukewarm temperature. In the meantime, dissolve yeast in lukewarm water. Add yeast mixture to the milk mixture. Stir thoroughly. Add remaining flour. Knead dough until smooth and elastic.

Put into an oiled milk bowl. Cover with a clean cloth. Let rise in a warm place until it is double in bulk. Turn out onto a floured surface. Roll out through and through with a rolling pin and knead into a long ball. Let rise again to double its bulk. Make into loaves and let rise in a warm place until these rise in a warm place until these rise in a warm place.

BAKE TEMPERATURE

The temperature of the dough during the rising should be carefully watched. Between 75 and 80 degrees is ideal. If it rises above 80 degrees, the yeast will be killed and the whole process spoiled.

After the dough has risen the first time, divide it into loaves. After the second rising, divide it into loaves. After the third rising, divide it into loaves. After the fourth rising, divide it into loaves.

Tomorrow's Menu

BREAKFAST: Baked pork, eggs, coffee.
LUNCHEON: Chicken, cauliflower, fruit salad, tea.
DINNER: Roast beef, potatoes, peas, bread, coffee.

What's What

Question—Our eleven is to play in the city. I want to go with him. I am the game with me, but I am on a very small allowance. I wonder if I have to pay for railroad fare from my city (thirty-five miles from here).
Answer—Miss S. Unless Mr. Campbell is offered to invite her very close to a good restaurant or hotel it is quite unwise for her to go. If she should I am in his classmate's car after the game.

Who Are You?

Girl Years For Lovely Slim Hands

15-Year-Old Fingers Are Short, Stubby, She Writes

By CLAUDE L. BROWN

"America's Most Famous Beauty"
"DEAR MISS GLAD: I'm very sensitive about the appearance of my hands. I'm only 15, and my fingers are terribly short and stubby. I'm still in the formative stage of my development. I want to know if there is anything I can do to make them longer and more graceful."

"PRINCESS"
Although you can't actually change the bone structure of your fingers, you can extend their apparent length by using certain exercises.

Each night, apply a generous amount of cold cream to your fingers. Then, beginning at the base of each finger, gently massage each with the thumb and forefinger of the other hand, moving each with the thumb and forefinger of the other hand, moving each with the thumb and forefinger of the other hand.

Glads Glad
I have been following your advice for some time now. My fingers are beginning to feel longer and more graceful. Thank you very much for your help.

Romance May Escape Couples Marrying Too Early in Life

By HELEN WEISHEIMER

A 13-year-old girl and a 17-year-old boy were married in France the other day. They are much too young, of course, to know anything about conjugal compatibility, what a man-or-a-woman-needs-to-be-loved, whether or not it is possible to pervertate devotion by a vow, and the countless other problems that loom the minds of psychologists and prudent judges.

But Adrienne and Henri Petrus were already the parents of a child. Marriage was conceded the best solution of their social dilemma.

Nobody has wisdom that is far-seeing enough to determine whether or not marriage was the best way out for the children. If society intended to demand that they wed soon, they would have been better to have the ceremony performed at once. The parents of the child will grow up together, grow accustomed to each other, and be considerably more likely to continue in the blessed state of matrimony than they would if he brought face to face when she is 18 and he is 22 and told that the time has arrived for legal love.

BUT there is another angle to the question. They are still in the adolescent, plastic stage. Their opinions haven't been formed. When they grow up each may discover the other isn't at all the kind of person he would have chosen to have dinner with 365 nights a year. Or maybe just one of them will make that discovery and that will be very much worse.

It is quite possible—and fairly probable—that some day when it is spring, about 1940, and the chestnut trees are scattering their delicate pink blossoms across the Bois, the boy will begin to feel that life has played an unfair trick on him. He may rebel because he is caught in a marriage with, even one of his own making, which has begun to rot in his heart.

If a young gentleman in a blue suit goes strolling down the Rue de la Paix the girl may begin to dream, too. Not about him. About any man who is new and strange and therefore romantic.

THEY won't be able to help it unless it has no happened that they have developed a genuine fondness for each other and established emotional security. There is a danger that they will have become so used to each other that they will be more like brother and sister in the long run. They may even come to love each other, but they may conceive half a dozen other sons and daughters, in which case they will be much too busy with their economic responsibilities to stroll in the Bois or any other place.

For the most part, though, the chances are pretty much against them. They will be the first of marriage who are not in love, and which romance should be eliminated. Romeo and Juliet weren't much older, it is true, when their hearts flamed with sentimental ardor. But after all, Romeo and Juliet died. Nobody knows what would have happened if they had lived until Romeo married his chime and Juliet had false teeth. The French children must grow up and go on living. Living together. That will be much harder. They are to be pitied much more than censured.

Most surprising of all was the victory of St. Michael's College over the previously unbeaten Imperial by 14-6. A bewildered crowd of 600 saw the Irish score a touchdown in just one minute of play and then hold the strength of the R. F. C. U. in check for the rest of the game.

BEATERS STILL IN IT

A crowd of 18,000 watched a wide margin 2-4 in a big game between the two teams at a point where they can create a deadlock for first place by beating Imperial in Sarnia. The game was a safety touch and a touchdown in the early part of the game.

Tottenham Takes a Close Decision in Hard Struggle

LONDON, Nov. 6.—Tottenham Hotspurs, up from the second division of the English football league, to hold the leadership in the championship race, emerged triumphant Saturday from a titanic struggle with the two fastest eleven in the league—the Spurs themselves and West Bromwich Albion, on the latter's grounds. The Spurs won 3-1 and so the Arsenal, league champions, were held to a 1-1 tie by Tottenham at Highbury. Tottenham are now a full game in front.

Twenty thousand persons turned out to see the Spurs battle the Albion. Wood scored for Tottenham. Albion within five minutes. Evans, the first of the Spurs' wing, equalized just three minutes later. GARNEAU HAS HIGH SCHOOL GRID HONORS

Edmonton Scores Eight Points in Last Few Minutes of Play

By CHARLES TODD
Garneau won the Northern and Central Alberta rugby title last Sunday when they defeated Wetaskinaw High School 8-0. After 40 minutes of play there was no score and it took three, ten-minute periods of overtime before Garneau pushed over a touchdown to take a five-point lead. Two minutes later Harley dropped a field goal to score the last three points of the game.

Harley threw a twenty-yard pass to Campbell to put his team on Wetaskinaw's twenty-yard line. Then he made seven yards on his end back. Harley followed up with a two-yard pass to the runner. On the next play Reed backed through the line for the remainder of the game. Harley made three yards to give Garneau a five-point lead. Harley made three yards to give Garneau a five-point lead.
